Linde Material Handling commits to MEGATRANS2020

MEGATRANS is pleased to announce that Linde Material Handling has committed to MEGATRANS2020 as a supporting sponsor of the event.

After exhibiting at the inaugural MEGATRANS conference in Melbourne last year, leading materials handling provider Linde Material Handling has announced that they will be showcasing their latest products and services at MEGATRANS2020.

“MEGATRANS is a great opportunity to connect with many different verticals and industries and after the success of last year’s event we are excited to be back on board for next year,” Christine Nolland, National Marketing Manager at Linde Material Handling said.

MEGATRANS2020 will take place on 1st April – 3rd April 2020 at the Melbourne Convention and Exhibition Centre and will feature the latest in artificial intelligence, robotics, warehouse automation and intelligent fleet systems.

Linde Material Handling will have industry experts on-hand to connect with customers and visitors at the event. “Our warehouse automation experts will be on the stand ready to help customers discover how the latest technology can help them meet the complex demands of the goods handling industry in Australia,” Christine said.

At the event, Linde Material Handling will be offering visitors the opportunity to discover the latest in lithium-ion battery powered forklifts. “We will have some of our most innovative electric forklift offerings on show. Visitors can get a first-hand look and feel for the truck. They’ll be able to get in the truck and have a look inside for the first time,” Christine says.

MEGATRANS2018 attracted nearly 10,000 attendees and for Christine at Linde Materials Handling it provided a unique opportunity to connect with people and organisations across a number of different sectors.

“Often with trade shows people are too time poor to spend time out of the office, but that’s the beauty of MEGATRANS it’s not just materials handling and logistics – every sector is there. So, people really make the effort to visit the show which gives us a great opportunity to connect with both new and existing customers,” she says.
